This irresistible debut, set in contemporary New York, provides a sharp, insightful look into how the relationship between two best friends changes when they are no longer coming of age but learning how to live adult lives.

As close as sisters for twenty years, Sarah and Lauren have been together through high school and college, first jobs and first loves, the uncertainties of their twenties and the realities of their thirties.

Sarah, the only child of a prominent intellectual and a socialite, works at a charity and is methodically planning her wedding. Laurenâ€™s beautiful, independent, and unpredictableâ€™ is single and working in publishing, deflecting her parentsâ€™ worries and questions about her life and future by trying not to think about it herself. Each woman enviesâ€™ and is horrified byâ€™ particular aspects of the otherâ€™s life, topics of conversation they avoid with masterful linguistic pirouettes.

Once, Sarah and Lauren were inseparable; for a long a time now, theyâ€™ve been apart. Can two women who rarely see one other, selectively share secrets, and lead different lives still call themselves best friends? Is it their abiding connectionâ€™ or just force of habitâ€™ that keeps them together?

With impeccable style, biting humor, and a keen sense of detail, Rumaan Alam deftly explores how the attachments we form in childhood shift as we adapt to our adult livesâ€™ and how the bonds of friendship endure, even when our paths diverge.
